Dear Judge Webster,

It is my extreme pleasure to apprise you of the performance of one of your employees, [redacted]. Last week, I convened a board of officers to study the future of armor in the Marine Corps. Of course, threat information is absolutely vital to any such undertaking and [redacted] provided that information. In less than 24 hours, he tailored a briefing specifically to the needs of this unique group. In fact, he gave several briefings on Soviet Armor capabilities and limitations, at varying levels of classification, to assist this group in its assigned tasks.

Without his help, this board would have been unable to perform as directed. The information he provided was absolutely crucial to this project which I consider vital to the Marine Corps. [redacted] is to be commended. He is a true professional who displays exceptional initiative and flexibility. Please convey my sincere appreciation for his time and effort in our behalf.
